Using Melbourne Green Map

The City of Melbourne Green Map uses the international GreenMap System™ icons to identify green sites, services, facilities and resources. The Green Map icons are listed and colour-coded by category to the right of the main map. The Legend also provides a reference to other symbols used on the map.

There are two ways to find information using the map:

1. Start by looking up a site of interest in the listings below. Sites are listed in alphabetical order within each category. A listing looks like this:

   AB001 Bayswater Road Park (playground) Bayswater Road, Kensington
   G 8

   G8 is the grid reference. If the grid reference has double letters, (eg GG8), this means the site is located on the Melbourne CBD inset map (right). AB001 is the unique code for each entry. Use the grid reference and the code to identify the location of the entry on the map.

2. To identify a place of interest on the map, note the icon, code and colour and refer to the listings below. The icon colour will identify the Green Map category. Then locate the icon type within the category and match the code to find the site details.

Culture & Design

Melbourne enjoys a strong reputation as a culturally vital and diverse city. We have a long history of cultural expression and celebration through all the arts: visual, performance, cinematic and literary. Activities occurring in the city are encouraged to be innovative, accessible and sustainable, both socially and environmentally. Whether they are festivals, street-based events, concerts, performance seasons, exhibitions or community-based projects, the Melbourne City Council is committed to arts activity respecting the physical and cultural environment of the city.

Central to this is recognition that the City's indigenous culture and communities are fundamental to Melbourne. The cultural vibrancy of Melbourne is reflected also in the natural and built environment of the City. Our historic and contemporary public art can be seen throughout the municipality.

The map features some of the City's public art spots(A) and historic features(T) but there are many, and it is far more enjoyable to wander the streets and discover them for yourself.

Economic Development : Green business / service

The City of Melbourne has a wide and growing range of businesses focusing on environmental services and technologies serving local, national and international markets. Building on growing strengths in the environmental management industry, Council is keen to develop Melbourne's reputation as a centre for environmental sustainability in the Asia-Pacific region.

The Melbourne Sustainable Business Directory features Melbourne-based businesses which promote sustainability either through environmentally-sensitive products and processes or through the provision of environmental management services. The directory is an initiative of the Melbourne City Council with the International Council for Local Environmental Initiatives as partner, and is available via www.melbourne.vic.gov.au/sustainablebusiness.

Economic Development : Green business practices

The City of Melbourne's business community is showing a growing commitment to sustainability. Many are realising that increasing efficiency, and producing more for less, results in wins for both businesses and the environment of the City. These businesses have joined programs to improve their environmental performance through measures such as reducing their energy demands, reducing waste and limiting their greenhouse gas emissions. Infrastructure

The City of Melbourne generates in excess of 100 000 tonnes of waste to landfill every year. Only about 9000 tonnes is generated by our residents with the rest coming from organic, commercial, construction and demolition waste. The Melbourne City Council's strategy for minimising our waste gives priority to reducing waste generated in the first place, reusing an item more than once or extending its useful life, and finally to recycling through the reprocessing of materials to produce the same or a different item. This strategy is known as the Reduce, Reuse, Recycle Waste Hierarchy.

Infrastructure : Recycling

Kerbside Recycling facilities are available to all City residences. Call the City of Melbourne Hotline on 9658 9658 for further information.

Council's Waste Management Centre is located in Dynon Road, Kensington, open from 8.30 - 3.30 pm every day. Recyclables, garden clippings, engine oil, car batteries and steel can be dropped off for free. For information call Council's contractor CityWide on 9261 5050.

Mobility : On & off-road bike paths

The City of Melbourne currently boasts over 30 kilometers of on and off-road bike paths and more are added every year. Council is committed to making Melbourne a truly world class cycling city. Bicycle facilities such as safe places to park your bicycle and water fountains can be found throughout the city. Many of Melbourne's attractions are accessible by bike. Many great trails pass through the City and can take you along the river systems that flow through Melbourne and many other great locations.

For more detailed maps and information on the bike paths in the City of Melbourne and beyond, please contact Bicycle Victoria on 9328 3000 or online at: bicyclevic@bv.com.au and www.bv.com.au.

Mobility : Wheelchair accessible

The City of Melbourne Mobility Map provides information on facilities and access for aged and disabled people in the Melbourne CBD. It is available in hard copy from the City of Melbourne, the front of the Melbourne Melway™ street directory or online at: www.accessmelbourne.vic.gov.au. The website includes an interactive version of the CBD Mobility Map, an events page featuring wheelchair accessible events, details of businesses that offer good access and facilities for people with a disability, plus links to information from disability organisations.

Wheelchair accessible toilets can be found in all of the City's major parks & gardens including: Fitzroy Gardens, Kings Domain, Treasury Gardens, Royal Park and the Carlton Gardens. In addition, all sealed paths in major parks and gardens are suitable for wheelchair access.

Nature - Fauna

Even in a highly urbanised area like the City of Melbourne, you can still see a wide variety of Australian native wildlife, particularly birds, possums and small reptiles. A lot of Australian animals are nocturnal meaning the best chance to see them is at dusk or at night. While wonderful to see, touching or feeding native wildlife is not encouraged. These are wild animals. You are killing them with your kindness!

Good places to watch birds include Westgate Park, Royal Park and the bird hide off Dynon Road.

The Melbourne City Council offers a variety of nature tours such as the 'Nature by Night' tour of the Fitzroy Gardens. Call the City of Melbourne Hotline on 9658 9658 for program details.
